Outside rearview mirrors were optional for Studebakers in most states. Right side mirrors were also optional and were rarely ordered as they were small and difficult to see from. When they were installed it was mostly for decorative purposes.

Newer cars use convex glass on the right side mirror to enhance visibility. We now have all of our Studebaker mirrors available with convex glass for the right side. Even though this is not original for the purist, it will provide better visibility and make the right side mirror more functional. All have "Objects in mirror are larger than they appear" written on the surface.
